SITUATION IN TURKEY.

THE FLEETS IN THE EAST.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 12.—A panic prevailed at Galata and Pera to-day, and many shops were closed owing to a false report that disturbances had broken out in the city.

The rumor originated in a street brawl between two Armenians. Order has otherwise not been disturbed, and as soon as the truth became known the shops were re-opened and public confidence was restored.

The second Italian guardship Archimede passed the Dardanelles to-day, accompanied by the British guardship Dryad.

ARMENIAN AFFAIRS.—The Russian cruisers Rurik and Dmitri-Donskoi sailed this morning for Turkish waters.—REUTERS.

DEPORTATION OF ARMENIANS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 13.—Since the conclusion of the firmans and the return of Said Pasha matters are generally quiet in this city.

Numbers of Kurds are, however, arriving at Stambul to be deported, and have accumulated during the recent disturbances, and their presence may cause trouble.

The Ottoman Government has revived, on a somewhat large scale, the feudal principle that a man belongs to the soil and has no right to separate himself from the spot where he was born.

Arrests of Armenians have under this rule been continued, and the various large provincial centres as well as in Constantinople.

In the first place men are taken from places where they have business and other relations of years' growth and relegated to distant and more or less inaccessible spots.

In the second place, educated men are thrust back to the villages to earn their daily bread with the manual labour, and in the third many of these victims are killed journeying homewards by marauding bands.

Numerous cases of this nature are already recorded, one party of 15 deportees from Constantinople having been killed while walking from Nicomedia to Van.

The police at Constantinople are continuing their attention to the punishment of those Armenians who were refugees in the churches after the massacre of Sept. 30, and who dispersed to their homes under safe conduct from the European Embassies.

Every man who is found in possession of the card given at that time is instantly shipped off to the interior.

The shipments are made at night, in order to avoid attention.—CENTRAL NEWS.

ASHANTI EXPEDITION.

ARRIVAL AT CAPE CASTLE.

CAPE CASTLE, Dec. 13.—The African steamer Bathurst, with Col. Sir F. Scott, Prince Christian Victor, and troops for Ashanti, arrived here this morning, the vessel being well up to time.

Directly the Bathurst was sighted, Capt. Mathew went out and met Col. Sir F. Scott on board, but the latter officer decided to land as soon as possible.

Accordingly he left the vessel in a surf boat, whose keel had no sooner grounded than two muscular blacks seized the colonel, lifted him between them, wrapping his legs round their loins, and deposited him high and dry on the shore.

This landing ceremony caused not a little amusement among the onlookers, for the arrival of the Bathurst had quickened the interest of the garrison, and created considerable public stir.

At the head of those waiting to receive Sir F. Scott was Governor Maxwell's secretary.

The weather is still very hot, but the sea is calm and the surf low, so the prospects for the expedition are favourable.

ANOTHER STATION ATTACKED.

ANTANANARIVO, Nov. 30.—An anti-European mob numbering about 6,000 has attacked and destroyed the mission station at Raminandra, belonging to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Mr. MacMahon, the missionary, and his family were taken to the approach of the mob, and succeeded in escaping a few hours before the attack was made.

The rioters remain in possession of the place. Six hundred French troops have been despatched to quell the disturbance.

The anti-European feeling is very strong, and all Europeans residing in the country are advised to leave as soon as possible.

The Press Association states, with reference to this report, that the mission station belonging to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel at Raminandra has been destroyed by an anti-European mob, that the mission being a very poor one, the missionaries and their families were taken to the approach of the mob, and succeeded in escaping a few hours before the attack was made.

prising white troops. The Italian colony at Missova is very anxious and the call to arms made by the commander is being responded to by all able-bodied men.

INSURRECTION IN CUBA.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—A despatch received here from Nassau, New Providence (Bahamas), says that the trial took place yesterday of the 15 men who, while on their way to join the Cuban insurgents, were arrested by a British gunboat at sea and conveyed to Nassau last October.

The trial, which occupied the whole day, had previously been postponed several times owing to the absence of material witnesses. Last evening, after an absence from court of 10 minutes, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

THE ATTACK ON SIR J. PAUNCEFOTE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The public attack which Senator Morgan made in the Senate upon Sir Julian Pauncefote, British Ambassador at Washington, continues to form the subject of widespread comment, chiefly of a character unfavourable to Mr. Morgan.

He appears to be under the impression that Sir Julian Pauncefote forwarded to the newspapers an abstract from his despatches to London, and published in a Blue-book. The actual facts are that the statements alleged by Mr. Morgan to have been supplied by the Ambassador to the newspapers were first appeared in London journals, which published long extracts from the Blue-book.

These extracts were copied into this country, and the leading papers made a feature of the despatch. It will thus be seen that Sir Julian Pauncefote did not communicate the matter to the American papers, and his excellency contends that nothing contained in his despatches to the British Government could possibly be construed as being discourteous or in any way reflecting upon any member of Congress.

FRENCH COLONIAL EXTENSION.

PARIS, Dec. 13.—The "Figaro" states that the appointment of Lieut. Mizon as resident at Mojangha has excited strong comment in the colonial world. The journal continues as follows:—Does it signify that France has renounced the rights which M. Mizon secured for her on the Niger and the Upper Benue? It was alleged yesterday that notwithstanding the statements made in the Chamber, the Government in order to obtain full possession of the left bank of the Mekong had given satisfaction to Great Britain on all points at issue in the Niger Basin question.

As the right bank of the Mekong belongs to us, we have not to make any concessions to England in order to possess it. It was hoped that M. Mizon was to be called upon to continue his patriotic work at Yola, and now he has been sent to Mojangha.

WIFE'S PAINFUL STORY.

"AN OFFICER AND A GENTLEMAN."

At Marylebone County Court, a painful story of married life was told to Judge Storer by Mrs. Elsie Hughes, wife of Capt. Gordon Hughes, late of the 92nd Gordon Highlanders.

Capt. Hughes, who was described as the crack pigeon-shot of England, appeared to a judgment summons at the instance of his wife, now staying with her father, who is a member of the bar, Mr. R. Drake, appeared for Mrs. Hughes and said the case was an exceptionally sad one. In September judgment was obtained against the captain at that court for £83, which was part of a sum of £800 he had borrowed from his wife.

Defendant had not paid a penny into court, although he was well able to do so. He had a share in a big business in the city, which he had divided of 137 per cent.

The Judge (surprised): 137 per cent.—Mr. Drake: Yes, I have documents here to prove it.—The judge said that Capt. Hughes had better be cross-examined as to his means.—Capt. Hughes, cross-examined by Mr. Drake, said he was not now a partner in a large business in Villiers-street, Strand.—Have you sold your share in the business for a large sum recently? I advertised it.—And got £1,000 for your share? More than that.—Were not your profits in the business 137 per cent? No.—Is not this letter in your own handwriting, giving the profits at 137 per cent.—Capt. Hughes, after glancing at the letter, replied in the affirmative.—Mr. Drake: Are you a member of the Junior Army and Navy Club, the Gun and Polo Club, Long and Brighton, and Gun and Shooting Club, Wormwood Scrubs? Yes.—Who is your London banker? Hoares.—Where is your bank-book? Oh, I've lost it. (Laughter).—Mrs. Hughes, who sobbed while giving her evidence, said her husband was well able to pay. He held shares in foreign and colonial companies, which were left him by Gen. Hughes, his father. He had also an interest in a gold mine, and had shares in the L.C. and D. Railway Co. He had won a number of cups and money prizes at pigeon-shooting. Her life had been a most miserable one.

"He has left me without a bit of food to eat," she sobbed, "and threatened me with violence. The other day he threatened to murder me. From our home in Hampstead I had to remove to a few rooms at Chesterton Road, N. Kensington. He will do nothing to me. When he left me without a bit of food to eat I was obliged to go home to my parents, who are now keeping me. My maid knows it all."—The Judge: Defendant will be committed for 21 days unless the amount due up to date is paid into court.

BRITON SCANDAL.

At the London Sessions on Friday, the trial was resumed of P.S. Connel, W. Div., who is charged with an assault upon Miss S. Redgrave in October.—Mr. Gill, on behalf of the defendant, referred to the fact that his appearance there as the advocate of defendant was by the direct instructions of the Chief Commissioner of Police, because defendant had an unblemished record of 16 years' service.—Defendant stated that he had been in the public service 27 years, added witness, "My life has not been spent up in a cupboard."—Mr. Gill: Before I ask you any further questions, is there any truth in the statement of prosecutrix that you ever attempted to assault her? Most certainly not. I never thought of such a thing.—Witness gave further evidence bearing out his version of the occurrence.—Adjourned.

On Thursday, Oxfordshire was visited by a remarkable and severe thunderstorm. The lightning was exceptionally vivid.

A playboy named John Jeens was knocked down by a passing train just outside Bridge Street Station on Friday, and was killed instantly.

Deceased, who was 60, was somewhat deaf, and in getting out of the way of one train he was knocked down by another.

The Lord-lieutenant of Ireland and Countess Cadogan paid a state visit to London on Friday, and received an enthusiastic welcome from the citizens.

Dresses were presented, and the visitors were entertained at luncheon by the mayor.

An inquest was held at Slaveron, Northampton, on a navy named Wickens, 20, who, after drinking 5 half-pints of neat whisky, fell insensible, and died the following day.

The time occupied in drinking the whisky was less than 15 minutes. Verdict, alcoholic poisoning.

At Birmingham, Thomas Cox, of Bromsgrove-street, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment for assaulting Harriet Turnall under the influence of drink. He pulled her about by her hair, and kicked her savagely. She eluded him, and rushed upstairs, and, as he followed her, she jumped through the bedroom window. She was severely injured.

At Westminister, Mr. Ferdinand, of King's-road, Chelsea, who was last week fined £20 and costs for falsely representing himself as a doctor of medicine, &c., the contention of the prosecution being that his qualifying degree from the Eclectic Schools of America was not recognised, gave notice of appeal against the conviction, and put in the required sureties.

Lord F. Osborne, brother to the Duke of Leeds, with an anxious and while hunting with the Queen's staghounds on Friday. His lordship, who is a bold rider, while taking a big obstacle near Brick Bridge when the hounds were in full cry, came down, and was stunned for a time. When recovered sufficiently he was conveyed to his Windsor residence.

At Sheffield, the stipendiary gave his decision in a case in which a Volunteer was summoned for penalties for failing to render himself efficient. The prosecuting solicitor pressed for a term of imprisonment to be imposed in default of payment; but the stipendiary said that, after careful consideration of the question, he was of opinion that the defendant must be treated as a civil debtor, and the order of the court could merely be for payment of money.

At Bow-street on Friday, before Sir J. Bridge, Kent Pinebeck, architect, of York-buildings, Adelphi, and Alexander Martin, clerk, of the same address, were again remanded charged with conspiracy to defraud.

The Chatham stipendiary magistrate on Friday committed Mary Eliza Sprackland, midwife, for trial at Kent Assizes on 3 charges of improper practices in the cases of 3 married women.

FOREIGN.

The Spanish High Court of Justice refuses to take into consideration the demand for the institution of proceedings against Señor Bosch, Minister of Public Works, in connection with the municipal scandals.

A telegram from Havana states that the insurgents have arrived in the neighbourhood of Cardenas, in the north of the province of Matanzas. The rebel leader, Maximo Gomez, has succeeded in avoiding an encounter with the Spanish troops by means of rapid movements. He left the village of Baes on Wednesday last in an unknown direction.

SAID PASHA AND THE BRITISH AMBASSADOR.

Said Pasha, the Turkish ex-Grand Vizier, sought refuge recently at the British Embassy at Constantinople. The ex-Minister, accompanied by his son, aged 12, applied to Sir P. Currie for asylum and protection.

His excellency immediately complied with the request. For some time past the Sultan has been endeavouring to remove him from the British Embassy, and the ex-Minister has been endeavouring to obtain a passport to leave the city.

While the Sultan was prosecuting his efforts in this direction, Said Pasha was one day kept at the Palace for many hours, and at one moment it seemed that he would be detained a prisoner at Yildiz Kiosk. It was not till some days later that Said Pasha felt it safe to leave British protection and return to his own residence.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN ON TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

The Duke and Duchess of Devonshire on Friday visited Birmingham to fulfil the promise to open the new Municipal Technical School recently built by the City Council at a cost of £88,000. In the afternoon the duke, who was the guest of Mr. Chamberlain at Highbury, for some time opened the school, and his excellency was entertained by the mayor at the council house. In the evening the duke attended a great public meeting in the Town Hall and distributed the prizes gained by the successful students during the year.

He contended that technical education was a necessity if we were to hold our own with the countries who in many cases were better equipped than we were.—Mr. Chamberlain, who also spoke, referred to technical education as a good investment which must produce satisfactory dividends, and that at no distant date. The city council of technical schools. They were the bodies which most directly represented the ratepayers and who enjoyed most public confidence.

CHARING CROSS TRAGEDY.

INQUEST AND VERDICT.

At the Westminister Coroner's Court on Friday, Mr. Troutbeck held an inquest on the body of Mrs. Mary Julia Galloway, 28, wife of a stockbroker's manager, residing at Bristol, who was found in the Grand Hotel, suffering from the effects of a bullet wound early on Sunday morning, and who died three days after her removal to the Charing Cross Hospital.—Mr. Colley Gratton Galloway, husband, said he last saw his wife alive on Nov. 27 last, when he travelled to London in the morning, and returned to Clifton. Deceased was then staying with her father and mother, with her four children. Maj. Galloway, his brother, was staying at a house in Maidvale, but he had no occasion to suspect there was anything wrong between his brother and his wife. After he returned to Clifton, however, he received two letters, which caused him to alter his opinion.—The letters were read by the coroner, and in them reference was made to the fact that she and Maj. Galloway were dining at the Grand Hotel, and that she was "hard up," and must visit her solicitor for an advance of money. In one of the letters the deceased wrote, "Do you feel lonely without me? Do take care of your dear self. Your own Missy."—Witness continued that later on he received telegrams from his wife saying she had postponed her journey home. Becoming curious as to her movements, he caused inquiries to be made at the Charing Cross Hotel on Dec. 7, on the following day he had a telegram from Bow-street Police Station, in consequence of which he travelled to London, and saw his wife at the Charing Cross Hospital. She made no statement to him, but he had received a note written on the Grand Hotel notepaper, as follows:—A Colley Gratton Galloway, wife of Maj. Galloway, has been 35 years of age, held an appointment in West Africa, and was on leave. Witness's wife had never threatened to end her life. She had been acquainted with Maj. Galloway since 1893, but they had not been very frequently together since then.—Mrs. Julia Watson, mother of deceased, said her daughter had been 35 years of age, and had been at Eton-bridge from Nov. 27 till 3rd inst. Maj. Galloway also stayed there, and beyond that fact that he was irritable and nervous witness noticed nothing particular in his behaviour.—Was your daughter on good terms with her husband? Yes, more so than I could describe.—Do you know any one named Rogers, night watchman at the Grand Hotel, who died at midnight on Dec. 7? He heard groans proceeding from a bedroom, and on forcing the door saw deceased lying on her back on the floor, while close by her lay the body of a gentleman, whom he had seen identify as Maj. Galloway. He saw a revolver on the floor near the lady's feet, and witness at once pulled it away. When the groans were heard a doctor was sent for, and he also assisted to force the door. He (the doctor) asked the lady who did it, and she replied, "I did it myself." The gentleman groaned, and he did not speak more, and he was placed on the floor in evening dress, and was fully attired.—Edward Ernest Matthews, fireman at the Grand Hotel, who also assisted to burst the door of the room open, said he heard the gentleman call out "May," and the lady answered "Come, my darling."—Dr. G. E. Charles, who attended deceased, said she stated that she had shot herself and the gentleman had shot himself. The latter said: "I cannot tell why I did it. It is too horrible." There did not appear to be any agreement between the pair.—A police inspector stated that the deceased and the lady, who had made statements, which they signed. The deceased stated that the gentleman shot himself with a revolver, and she then took the weapon from him and shot herself. PIPER PAN.

The week after next will see the close of the first half of the winter season, and there will then be a temporary lull in musical affairs. Not for very long, however, as there will be the Sunday, Ballad, and Popular Concerts re-commencing almost immediately after Christmas, and a good many extra musical entertainments in honour of the festive season.

Our talented English pianist, Miss Fanny Davies, has made a great success in Vienna, having been six times recalled after playing Mendelssohn's concerto in G minor; then, after giving an encore, being twice recalled. The German Press and public appear to be developing a proper appreciation of English artists.

I never remember so many matinees being given at the Savoy Theatre as is the case just now, the immense success of "The Mikado" necessitating three morning performances a week. In spite, however, of the big business, preparations for the new opera have already commenced, so its production may be looked for in the course of the next two months.

Herr Rosenthal makes his last appearance in London for some time at the Popular Concert on Monday. He very shortly leaves for Germany, whence he will not return to this country until next summer. I understand that he is not yet definitely engaged for the Philharmonic Concerts, and, considering the directors have already secured Beethoven, Brahms, Liszt, and Schumann, it would hardly be a serious thing if one pianist less appeared.

The Lady Hallé testimonial seems likely to prove a great success, as I am pleased to see that the Prince of Wales has graciously consented to accept the position of president. Admirers of the great violinist on the Continent, and even in the colonies, are all sending hearty support, and in London and the provinces the same kind feeling is shown.

Several of my esteemed contemporaries have drawn attention to an amateur operatic company about to be formed, and they appear to think the proposed company would be a new departure. May I draw their attention to the fact that there already exists the Blackheath Amateur Operatic Society, an excellent body of amateurs who have given representations of operas for the last two years, and handed some hundreds of pounds over to local charities?

Tuesday will be the 125th anniversary of Beethoven's death, and Mr. Henschel has fittingly chosen the great master's "Missa Solemnis" for performance at the London Symphony Concert that evening. I must draw the attention of music-lovers, by the bye, to the fact that there are still five of these splendid Beethoven concertos to be given, and Mr. Henschel hopes that his efforts will meet with hearty support.

I mentioned last week that Mr. Gilbert was kindly superintending the final rehearsals for the performance of "Princess Ida" by the students of the Guildhall School of Music. Sir Arthur Sullivan has also been good enough to be present on several occasions, so that the young people ought to give a good representation of the opera, considering they have had advice from the composer and the librettist.

The Empress Frederick has very generously sent £25 towards the Purcell Memorial Fund in Westminster Abbey. The gift, in addition to the sum already secured, will enable the building of the new organ case in the Abbey to be commenced shortly.

I have just heard of an excellent movement on foot—to provide an unpretentious club, or meeting-place, where in the intervals between rehearsal or morning and evening performances, orchestral players might dine and dress comfortably. Such a scheme would be an immense boon to many hard-worked instrumentalists, and, if economically and practically conducted, would be well supported.

Mr. Max Hamboury has finished his Australian tour and returned to London, where he will rest for some time. The young pianist was immensely successful in Australia, and at his final recital in Sydney he played to audiences of over 3,000 persons.

Madame Adelina Patti will appear as Violetta in "La Traviata" at Monte Carlo on Christmas Day. The prima donna will be supported by MM. Masini and Albers as Alfredo and Germont.

Her Majesty the Queen was much delighted with the concert given at Windsor Castle by the Imperial Institute Amateur Orchestra last week. At the conclusion of the programme, which had been selected by the Queen, Mr. Randegger, the honorary conductor, was presented, and at her Majesty's desire the final selection, "Marche Toulonnaise," was repeated.

A pleasant function took place at the Salle Erard on Wednesday, when the lady professors of the Guildhall School of Music gave a reception to Lady Barnby, wife of the principal of the institution. Foremost representatives were present of almost every art and profession, and so numerous were the visitors who were present that I have not space to give names.

The sisters Giulia and Sofia Ravogli have finished the concert tour which Mr. Daniel Mayer arranged for them in England. They have now returned to Italy, but will be back here again in the summer in time for the grand opera season.

I must remind my readers that the concert at Queen's Hall on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 15, is more than usually attractive. In addition to Mr. Randegger's fine orchestra, there will be violin, clarinet, cornet, and organ solos by Messrs. Johannes Wolff, Manuel Gomez, Howard Reynolds, and Henry Bird; and Mr. Watkins Mills will sing.

At a recent meeting of the London County Council, it was agreed to expend £7,830 on providing open-air concerts in the parks for 13 weeks, beginning at the end of May next year.

BUCKLAND, JUNIOR.

I have often given accounts of exciting adventures with lions and other large game in Somaliland, and have recorded some close escapes from death. This week I am not so fortunate to record such a happy termination to an adventure which Major Sandback, R.A., had with a lioness in that country. He had badly wounded the beast, and the head hunter then fired both barrels of his gun at her which so enraged her that she sprang forward and killed him with a blow on the head from her paw. Major Sandback then discharged his gun at her which made her turn on him. He having only one cartridge left, which did not take effect, rammed the gun barrel down her throat, in doing which he got both his hands and arms badly mauled. Gangrene setting in before medical aid could be procured, he succumbed to his injuries.

Though not quite in my department to notice books, I cannot help calling the attention of my readers to one which has recently been published by Messrs. Cassell on birds' nests ("British Birds' Nests," by R. K. Kearton). The most interesting feature of the work is the number of excellent photographs which are given of the nests in situ.

In the preface Mr. Kearton gives us some interesting accounts of his endeavours to photograph some of the more inaccessible nests. He also tells us that when only nine years old, during one of his solitary excursions along the side of a noisy Yorkshire beck he came across a bird's nest, differing so widely from all his previous "takes" and discovering that he determined to find out the species to which it belonged, and accordingly hid himself and began to watch for the return of its builder. Night fell without bringing any success, so he curled himself up beneath an overhanging crag in order to wait until the bird came back in the morning to lay another egg, entirely oblivious of the fact that he would be missed at home. His slumbers were broken early by a great outcry in the little glen. The whole of the all-bodied population of the little mountain village had turned out to help to find him. He suffered that night somewhat severely in the interests of science.

"A Constant Visitor to the Riviera" writes:—Our correspondent at Biarritz writes he has extended his travels to the shores of the Mediterranean and found plenty of the little pests he describes. Their proper name is, I have always heard, the professional caterpillar, and they are to be found in great numbers crossing the paths and roads in the vicinity of the pine woods which are so common in these parts. They do not injure the plants, but are found in large numbers on the branches. As your correspondent describes, they follow each other head to tail for yards in length, making their way from one place to another. There is no doubt that their numbers are caused by the ruthless manner in which all bird life is destroyed by the French sportsmen (?) to whom not even a robin is sacred.

I have on more than one occasion called attention to savage attacks by rats on human beings, but I think we have never had so good an example of the injuries which they can inflict as was given at Hammersmith a few weeks ago, when a man who had previously expressed his horror of the animals, though not actually attacked, was apparently frightened to death by them. On Tuesday he was seized by a large one scurrying over his hand, the effects of which he never recovered from, and was found dead in his bed on Friday morning.

I am obliged to a correspondent for the following note concerning an albino sparrow. "One day last week I was at Euston Station, and saw there a splendid white sparrow. On speaking to the inspector about it he informed me the bird had been on the station 12 or 14 months. The other sparrows will not mate with it, nor will they let it feed in their company, several of them driving it off as soon as it settles on the ground. It is a remarkably fine bird."

No doubt most of my readers will read the dimensions given of the ostrich's egg in our issue of Dec. 1 with some surprise. It is, of course, quite clear some regrettable mistake has crept in. For an egg of the ostrich would be an extraordinary monstrosity. The word "circumference" was unfortunately left out, and the measurements given are those of the circumference of the length and breadth of the egg. Strangely enough only one correspondent has drawn my attention to the error. The diameter of the length would be a good-sized ostrich egg, of which I have one before me, measures 5 1/2 in. and 5 1/2 in. respectively.

FRAY BENTOS OK TONGUES" ARE THE BEST

A man named Daniels, lately living in College Park, W., committed suicide Thursday in the Thames. He had married a young woman.

The Bishop of Bangor presided on Tuesday at Bangor at an influential conference of Church-workers. Secretaries of parishes, committees, &c., in a representative city attended from all parts of the diocese and the speakers included the Hon. Viscount Grosvenor. Stress was laid on the need for giving instruction in all parishes of the true history of the Church in Wales.

Henry Childs, Arthur Waldon, and E. Morgan were charged at Kidderminster last night poaching with violence at Otley. A farmer named Guy, his son, a gamekeeper named Morris attempted to arrest prisoners, who had evidently been poaching for some time, and shot him senseless with a bluegun. Accused committed for trial.

PRISONER'S REMOVAL CASE.—The Court of Criminal Causes Reserved, consisting of the Lord Chief Justice and Justices Hawkins, Mathew, Williams, and Vaughan Williams had before them the case of the Queen v. Riley. —The defendant, Henry Riley, a telegraph clerk, was indicted, with Albert Ed. Walden, before Mr. Justice Kennedy, at the Mansion House, for feloniously sending by telegraph a defamatory and untrue message to the proprietor of the Standard, Crampston and Radcliffe, to be paid to one Henry Dorber by means of a forged telegram, which, it was understood, had reference to betting transactions. The accused had pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to 9 months' hard labour, while Walden was acquitted. The prisoner's counsel reserved the right to move for a writ of habeas corpus, whether accused or not, and he was accordingly convicted on the indictment, the forged telegram being described as a forged instrument. —A curious feature of the case was that Riley earnestly desired the judge not to respite the execution of the judgment, and not to postpone the proceedings and therefore he was in prison undergoing for the prisoner, and the Solicitor-general, Mr. McCall, Q.C., and Mr. Casserley for the prosecution. — After the case stated had been read, the Lord Chief Justice asked: "What is the meaning of the words 'to be sent to prison'?" "The prisoner means that he desires any attention that may be paid to this rubbishy point" (Laughter). — Mr. Mellor said that the prisoner asked how long it would be before the case would be heard, and he was told that it might take 3 or 4 weeks before a court could be got together. Thereupon he said that he was already been in prison for 10 months doing nothing, and that he wished to get done with his sentence. (Laughter.) —The Lord Chief Justice: "I think he had rather a contemptuous opinion of that point. (Loud laughter.)" — Mr. Mellor said that just before the prisoner was arrested he had married, and intended to emigrate to America, and that he had had an object in view in his sentence as quickly as possible, and he preferred to go on serving it in case the indictment should be held good. (Laughter.) Mr. Mellor further stated that he had looked up the definition of "instrument," and found that it was a formal legal writing. He submitted that it must be an instrument in writing, and that it must be a writing, letter, or telegram, and not a mere verbal statement, and that which might mean anything. This particular telegram merely said, "23 Lord of the Dale," and therefore could not come under the category. —The court reserved their decision.

THE RIGHTS OF FREEMEN.—Judgment was delivered in the case of Hart v. Beard, which raised the question as to the rights of Freemen of the City of Coventry to be on the Parliamentary register in such a way as to entitle them to vote at an election of guardians of the parish. The appellant was Walter Edward Hart, although his name appeared on the Parliamentary register at which was not included in the list of parochial electors, which would confer upon him the right of voting for guardians, and the reversing barrister had disallowed his claim and that of 14 other freemen.—The Lord Chief Justice and Justices Grant and Vaughan Williams, sitting as a divisional court, upheld the decision, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

NEWSPAPER DISPUTE.—Mr. Justice Kekewich was engaged in hearing the case of Graham v. O'Connor, which was an action brought by Mr. Graham, a Wolverhampton newspaper proprietor, to obtain specific performance of a contract, and a written agreement between Mr. Graham and Mr. T. P. O'Connor, of the Tudor Pub. House, for the transfer to the plaintiff of 2,000 deferred shares in that company in consideration of services rendered by the plaintiff. There were 3 defendants, Mr. T. P. O'Connor, the Tudor Co., and Mr. F. H. O'Connor, stepson of the first. —The Counsel for the plaintiff said at the date when the contract was made, 25,000 deferred shares had been issued by the Tudor Co. to the managing proprietors of the "Sun" and "Weekly Sun." The Tudor Co. was in some difficulty towards the end of 1893, and Mr. T. P. O'Connor requested the plaintiff as a business man to come to their assistance in the way of advising and helping them. The plaintiff complied with the request, and as a business management of the paper, which afterwards began to pay its way. The contract between the plaintiff and O'Connor was in the shape of a letter written by Mr. T. P. O'Connor, which stated—"It is with pleasure that I offer you a honorarium of £2000 payable at 40p per week, and also assistance and assistance in connection with the management of the department of the Tudor Publishing Co.; to give such personal attendance at the company's offices as you are able to render. When you come to town your railway fares and hotel expenses to be paid. Also, I shall assign to you 2,000 deferred shares of the Tudor Publishing Co., and how soon you will be able to secure a railway to come on the board." —The Counsel added that the honorarium had been paid, but the transfer of shares had not been completed. After arguments on both sides, Mr. Justice Kekewich gave judgment for the plaintiff, enforcing specific performance in the ordinary way.

REGISTRATION APPEAL.—In the Queen's Bench Division the Lord Chief Justice delivered judgment in the case of Souttar v. Riddick, which was an appeal by the Liberal Registration Agent at Southwark from the decision of the Revising Barrister, who had allowed the claim of Mr. Alfred George Le Blonde to have his name inserted in the occupiers' list. Mr. Le Blonde claimed, in respect of two houses, and it was proved that he had occupied the premises for 12 years, but objection was taken to the claim on the ground that it was invalid by reason of the omission of the word "successive." The Revising Barrister over-ruled the objection, and amended the claim by inserting the word. The questions for the court were whether the claim was validly made, and whether the revising barrister had the power to amend the claim.—The court now decided that in the first instance the qualification was insufficiently stated, but that the revising barrister had the power to amend.—Appeal dismissed with costs.

Lord Mayor's Court.
(Before the Recorder, Sir C. Hall, and a Jury.)

PUBLIC HOUSE BROKERAGE.—Messrs. Bromley, Son, and Kelday, house and estate agents, Finsbury-pavement, have as estate agents, formerly of the Star and Garter, Whitechapel-road, for 455 brokerage and commission on the sale of that house in September last, by Messrs. Whitbread and Co.—Mr. Sims, a member of the plaintiff's firm, stated that in August last defendant instructed him to find a purchaser for his house, his price being 425000. The plaintiff's advertisement placed, but never taken, and without specific instructions. The name of the house was not mentioned, because publicans objected to that being done, as it might bring the brewers and other creditors down upon them. Defendant afterwards expressed his willingness to accept £23,000, but ultimately the plaintiff found that defendant had sold the house to Messrs. Whitbread for £23,100, and had employed Messrs. Elmet as their agent, and had paid them £33 commission and brokerage. The defendant went into the house and said he put the house into the hands of his fire house agents, and the whole was effected by Messrs. Fleuret and by the plaintiffs.—Verdict for defendant.

City of London Court.

(Before Mr. Commissioner Kerr.)

CREDIT TRADE.

In an action brought by Messrs. H. Abraham and Co., against Mr. Edward J. Blackford, the defendant offered no defence. He said his business had been in existence for about 18 months. He said his trading was done at 74-90 York Street, but not lodging. Plaintiffs thought the offer insufficient.—Commissioner Kerr said tradesmen ought not to give credit to people in defendant's position. They did so at their own risk, and if they had not done so, recovering their money from the would have put up with it. An indiscriminate credit was much given with the idea of increasing trade, and tradesmen who gave it would certainly find it unprofitable. Other large firms could make good profits, and paid good dividends, simply because they did not give credit and had no bad debts.—Judgment for plaintiffs, 10s. a month.

Bow-street.

ALLEGED THEFT OF POSTAL NOTES.—A respectable draper, a young man, about 20 years of age, whose name and address, after charges on remand with having in his possession two postal notes of the respective value of 10s. 6d. and 1s., supposed to be stolen by him, Arnold, who prosecuted on behalf of the Postmaster-general, said that numerous complaints had been received by him in letters orders which had been made in letters passing through the G.P.O. The orders had been initiated at various post offices in the metropolis, and they had all been filled in in the same handwriting. Tracings of the handwriting had consequently been sent to the various post offices. At the last hearing evidence was given that the two postal notes attempted to cash at the principal office of question were at the post office Judd-street, near Cross, but he was arrested in consequence of the handwriting being the same as that on the tracing. He then stated that he picked the orders up in Farrington-street.—Agnes Leach, Denbighdale, near Huddersfield, who was dressed in the garb of the Salvation Army, identified the notes of the value produced as having been purchased and posted by her manager of the publishing department of the Salvation Army in London, on Nov. She had made them payable to "William Booth," and had crossed them. The cross had been erased and postage stamps placed over them and the name had been altered "Bortham."—Remanded.

Mansion House.

KLEPTOMANIA.—Solomon Blake, waiter of St. James's Palace, charged with stealing watches, property of Wm. Ketteridge and George Jackson, waiters, in the service of Mr. Rowell, of New Street-hill. Evidence showed that Blake had been three months in the service of Mr. Rowell, during which time miscellaneous articles belonging to the household had disappeared from different parts of the premises. Money was missed almost daily, and innocent persons suspected, one of whom Mr. Rowell discharged, but still robberies continued. The two prosecuting servants of prisoner, missed their watches from their bed-rooms a few days ago, and Blake, when taxed with stealing them, frankly confessed at once to his guilt. He had given one of the watches to a friend in Fleet-street to repair; the other he had pawned for a duplicate.—Prisoner pleaded guilty.—Prisoner's employer said that he had noticed peculiarities about prisoner, but did not believe that he had any felonious intentions in what he did.—Remanded.

Westminster.

"THE FAULT OF THE HORSE."—William Clark, cabman, Randall-street, Battersea, was charged with being drunk during employment at Lower Sloane-street, Chelsea.—The defendant made a denial, saying his rambling began the night, until he was called by Mr. Shell, who wanted to know what he had to say to being drunk after a previous conviction at this court. Defendant: I put my shoulder out the day, and trying to get on the cab I fell; horse's head was towards home, and started. It was entirely my fault, and the movement of the horse. Mr. Shell: Then your representative will have to pay fine—20s. or 14 days.

West London.

CLEVELAND POLICE CAPTURE.—The two who gave the names of George Carter and James Stanley were brought up on remand charged with being suspected persons.—It was the case in which P.C. Barnaby, another officer, both of whom were described as fishermen's wives, were able to waylay a number of prisoners while they were loitering in Lexham-gardens, Kennington, supposed for the purpose of robbing the residence of Mr. Bennett, the moderate, by gaining an entrance to an unpicked house next door. After prisoners in custody two formidable jemmies found in a neighbouring garden.—Mr. Barnaby was charged with the offence of making thorough the activity and intelligence of P.C. Barnaby prisoners were prevented from carrying out the sessions with breaking and burglary.—Ten months each.

SHARP HOUSEMAID.—Frederick Froesepectably dressed, was charged with taking a watch bearing the name of Mr. Ernest Bromley, of Gloucester-road, Kensington, and Mrs. Branton, housemaid to prosecute said on Friday prisoner inquired if there any apartments to let in the house, and that he wanted them for his uncle and cousin. He said the drawing-room floor was to let, asked if he would like to see the room, took him into the dining-room, where he opened the door into the bedroom. He returned to the landing after looking at the rooms and said they would suit his purpose. He returned to the bedroom. She looked through the crack of the door and saw sonner take the watch and chain of mantelshelf. When he came out of the room she asked him what he was doing. "Nothing," he replied. She saw the watch and chain, and she kept him in the bedroom until she had assistance, he begged to be released.—Remanded.

North London.

JANE CAKEHEAD'S RIVAL.—Addie Adams was charged for the 106th time drunkenness.—Prisoner was found by 485 J drunk in Kingsland-road. As she was shouting, and would not go away, she was taken into custody. A gentleman offered assistance out of kindness to the woman, she slapped his face, and he went to the police. Somerset had promised to take woman to her farm colony early in the year.—One month.

Clerkenwell.

BAD COMPANY.—Albert Tranter, 25, scale maker, Cyprus-street, was charged with stealing 5dwts. of gold cuttings, valued at the property of Messrs. Wells and Myddleton-street, Clerkenwell, his employers.—Prisoner, it appeared, had been the firm's employ for seven years, and quantity of gold used in making the frames having communicated with, and in the prisoner was arrested.—Det. Wilson, said he had watched Tranter for the fortnight, and found that he was in the habit of associating with loose characters betting men. On the previous evening saw him leave Messrs. Wells' premises followed him to Gloucester-street, where he stole him and accused him of having stolen property about him. Prisoner replied, "You can search me; I will go to the station." On the way, however, he suddenly broke away and ran off. He was recaptured after a smart run, and was taken away protesting against the charge. While running he was seen to throw away something, which on being picked up proved to be a small parcel containing gold cuttings.—Pleaded guilty.—Three months.

SUPPOSED RAILWAY PICKPOCKETS.—Charles Riley, 20, and George Ellis, 22, were charged with attempting to pick the pockets of passengers on the Great Northern Railway between Highbury and King's Cross Stations.—Det. Barry said while in a third-class compartment, next to one in which the prisoners were, he saw them attempt to pick the pockets of two ladies. They were stopped at King's Cross, where they were found to have several tickets which had been found to have been previously taken from the ladies. The prisoners had been travelling up and down the line for the purpose of pocket-picking.—Remanded.

ASSAULTING A CONSTABLE.—Francis Bromhead, 45, butcher, no fixed abode, was charged with disorderly conduct and assaulting P.C. 481 G in the execution of his duty. On the previous night the prisoner was making a great row outside the Salvation Army's Hall in Charles-street, Hatterston. The officer requested him to go away, but he would not, and as he continued the disturbance he was arrested, when he became very violent, seized the constable, who held on to him, and they both rolled together in the mud for some time, the prisoner striking out with his fists. He was secured, with a constable, and taken to the station. On several previous convictions for assaulting the police were proved against the prisoner, who was stated to be an extremely violent and dangerous man.—Six months.

Thames.

TRAGEDY ON THE HIGH SEAS.—John Callen, ship's cook, was charged, on remand, with the wilful murder of Sing Eng, Chinese man, on board the Creedmoor. Mr. Callen was prosecuted on behalf of the Treasury.—Charles Simon, the prisoner's lawyer, said that on the Creedmoor on her last voyage he believed prisoner's correct name was Ah Loy. On the 22nd ult. he was in the wheelhouse when he heard screams. On going out he saw the steward, who was pointed at his breast, where he was bleeding. On going into the galley he found three knives lying on the floor, and there was blood on the floor and on the wall. He asked the steward until he was buried as dead.—Dr. Hamilton said he examined prisoner at Shadwell Police Station. On the left forearm were four wounds, three of which were quite healed, while the fourth, which was the largest, was suppurating. It felt almost positive the arm was raised at the time the wounds were inflicted. From the sound on the dead man was probably caused by the large knife.—Committed for trial.

ALLEGED THEFT.—Thomas Windley and John Liddiard were charged with stealing galvanometers and two galvanic batteries belonging to some person residing at Det. Smith and Hancock's on Friday were in Cabl street, and saw the prisoner Windley. He appeared bulky, turned up Dean-street. They stopped him and found he had a battery and two galvanometers. Windley stated it got them from his landlord some four or five months ago, to sell for £1. They afterwards went to prisoner's room in Cornhill-street, where another battery, some of the tools, and then went to John Cornwall-street, where they found a battery. That prisoner denied having given Windley anything to sell, but afterwards admitted having given him four batteries some two years, and bought the of a man for 12s. He was unable to give the name of the seller. The articles were given him.—Remanded.

Southwark.

BOY THIEVES.—Four little boys, Norman 13; Kelly 13; Lightfoot, 12, and McKewen, were charged with stealing pans, frying pans, and hardware shops in Berners-street, and Frederick Pook, of Henry-pans, was charged with receiving some of the goods.—Det. Beard, M Division, said inquiries had been made about Pook, and was found his character was good. Windley arrested he admitted having stolen things, and said he had not seen how I made mistake.—The magistrate discharged Pook, on caution, discharged Norman a Lightfoot, and directed Mr. Robinson, industrial schools officer, to find schools for the other two, who were again remanded.

VARIED EXPERIENCE.—Alfred Dennett, was charged with being a deserter from the Battery of the R.H.A. He had been in the stable stated that he was called to Waterloo. He had been in the prisoner was detained having travelled from Aldershot with paying his fare. Prisoner then stated that he had deserted; he was in plain clothes, he also said that he had only recently enlisted and had escaped from a lunatic asylum at Liverpool in order to become a soldier.—Remanded.

ASSAULT WITH A NOSE-BAG.—Morris O'Neil, of Bermondsey, labourer, was charged on remand with assaulting Sims, proprietor of the Duke of Clarence, Tooley-street, by striking him on the nose with a nose-bag containing mud and stone.—Mr. Sydney, for prosecutor, said his wife had since the assault been under medical treatment. The magistrate was given by P.C. for the gentleman named Findlay, who witnessed prisoner's conduct.—Prisoner he was very sorry, but he had been in India, and got a sunstroke.—Mr. Sydney reminded the magistrate that prisoner recently served a month's imprisonment on assault on the same landlord.—Months.

South-Western.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—John Foot, labourer, of Stanbury-road, Battersea, was charged with having attempted to commit suicide. P.C. Newberry was called to the prison house on Nov. 14, and found him lying in his with his throat cut, and holding in his hand a table knife covered with blood. He removed to Bellingbrooke Hospital, and he had remained since.—Det. Liddiard said he had been drinking since, and did not know what came to it.—Mr. Hopkins, in allusion to the prisoner, advised him to be a teetotaler.

ROBBING AN EMPLOYEE.—Henry Cheeseman, 16, draper's assistant, of Meyrick-street, and John Smith, 18, of Stanley-road, were charged with robbing the prisoner, 36 silk hosiery, of Henry Gill, bossier, of St. John's hill, in whose employ Cheeseman was. The articles were pledged. When arrested Det. Hopkins, Smith said Cheeseman had him the things to pawn. Cheeseman, however, stated that Smith asked him for the things.—Smith, one month; Cheeseman, days.

Kingston-on-Thames.

THEFT OF OVERCOAT.—Mary Wood, married, was charged on remand with having stolen a coat in her possession, supposed to be stolen.—The coat had been pledged to a pawnbroker's.—Det. sergt. Morley said that the overcoat had been identified as one of 15 stolen some time ago from the premises of the Bespoke Tailoring and Dressing, of London, and was in the possession of two men, Charles and John Sanderson, former of whom was in custody at Croydon, charged with the theft.

in, asserted that Wood would be uncooperatively, in witness against this man. — Discharged accordingly.

TOO HARD WORK.—Wm. Ratton, 21, an inmate of the Kingston Workhouse, was charged with refractory conduct by refusing to perform his allotted task.—The labour master stated that prisoner was set to do some pumping along with several others that morning, and flatly refused to do so. Prisoner complained that 8 men were not enough to work the pump, and that 12 men were to be put to it until the new master came.—Mr. H. Wakely, the master, said this was not so, for he was told that 8 men always worked the pump before he came to Kingston.—Prisoner: Then it's slavery, that's all.—Twenty-one days' hard labour.

THREATS.

BOYS IN TROUBLE.—Charles Webb, 8, of Blucher's-buildings, and John White, 8, of Blucher's-buildings, Greenwich, were charged with stealing a dog-collar, overcoat, &c., from houses in Craigenhe-road, Blackheath, and a child's mail-cart from 10, Banchory-road.—Mr. Storey, Industrial Schools Officer, said that prisoner Webb had been previously charged at that court for robbing a boy.—Remanded to the workhouse for a week.—Webb had before the court on three occasions.

THEFT FROM AN OFFICE.—Arthur Coppin, of Blackhorse-road, and James Gray, of Queen-street, Deptford, were charged with breaking into an office at the Surrey Commercial Docks, the property of Mr. J. Hovey.—Evidence showed that prisoner Gray had been previously charged at this court for robbing a man, and a cupboard, from the former of which a shilling or two in copper was stolen. Prisoners denied the charge.—Six weeks each.

Stratford.

UNLABELLED MARGARINE.—Caroline Vaughan, dealer, Ankley-road, Walthamstow, was summoned for exposing margarine for sale without having it labelled as such.—Defendant pleaded in defence, but pleaded ignorance of the law. She said she had been told she must put the margarine in labelled wrappers and had done so, but she did not know a label must be put on that exposed for sale.—Fined 10s. and costs.

INQUESTS.

BLOWN OVERBOARD.—Mr. Baxter held an inquest on the body of William Murphy, 66, dock labourer, Glengall-road, Poplar.—The evidence showed that on Thursday afternoon the deceased was suddenly seen to fall or to be blown into the Millwall Dock, and was stepping across a barge. He was got out in a few minutes but died whilst being taken ashore.—Mr. McMoran said that death was due to shock from the immersion.—Accidental death.

CIRCULAR SAW FATALITY.—Mr. Braxton Hicks held an inquest on the body of John Balkwill, 50, sawyer, Creighton-road, Wandsworth-road.—The evidence of Mr. T. J. Mitchell, manager of the deceased's firm, the Plymouth Lumber Co., showed that on Tuesday the deceased was working at a circular saw. Witness suddenly heard a cry, and on looking round saw the deceased standing near the saw with his hand partially severed, and bleeding profusely.—Benjamin Baily corroborated Mr. Carnes' evidence, and said he was of opinion that deceased accidentally showed his hand on the saw and was killed.—The coroner said that an inquest was performed at St. Thomas Hospital, but death resulted from shock following hemorrhage.—Accidental death.

THE "SCALDING AND BURNING SEASON."

Mr. Baxter held an inquest on the body of David Evans, 15 months, son of a carman living at Ashburnham-road, Greenwich.—The evidence showed that the deceased had lately been working at a grandmother at Sutherland-road, Mile End, and a few days ago was accidentally scalded with a cup of tea, and died in the London Hospital.—The coroner said he noticed the scalding and burning season had commenced. At this time of the year it was a common thing for tea or coffee to be under the foot of the bed in the London Hospital one time.—Accidental death.

DECEASED BETWEEN TRUCKS.—Mr. Baxter held an inquiry on the body of Joseph Wheelwright, 63, dock labourer, Court-road, Mile End.—Alfred Hill, dock labourer, deposed that on Monday afternoon he was shunting railway trucks in the Millwall Docks, when he heard a cry, and saw the deceased lying between the four foot way between the trucks. Witness went to him and deceased said, "I tried to get through as I thought there was time, but they came too quick for me, and I am badly crushed." He was removed to Poplar Hospital, where he died on Thursday.—The widow said that her husband had been in the employ of the dock company for 35 years.—Accidental death.

COLLECTING TRAM TICKETS.—Mr. Lewin held an inquest on the body of John Charles Phillips, 9, the son of a gas stoker, of Seaton-street, Plaistow.—Willie Phillips, 11, also the deceased, his brother, and himself went with some other boys on Thursday evening to pick up tickets from the tramcars.—The deceased was on behind a car just before it reached the Sewer Bridge, when the conductor came down the steps and his brother jumped off and was run over by a cart which was coming on behind.—The Coroner: What do you do with these tickets?—Witness: I get a penny a hundred for them from the tramway company.—On the evidence shown that the deceased was the cart went over the wheel first, and the driver pulling the cart, the wheel backed over his head, and second time, death being instantaneous.—Accidental death.

CABMAN DIES ON THE BANK.—Mr. D. held an inquiry yesterday with reference to the death of Henry Jones, 43, a cabman, residing at West Kensington.—Frederic Thomas, cab attendant at the Earls Court rank, said that deceased had 2 or 3 fares on Friday, and returned to the rank at 3 o'clock. Witness had a drink with him and left him sitting on his box. Immediately afterwards he saw the deceased, who was lying on the road. He was unconscious, and witness helped to put him in his cab, and he was taken to the post station. Witness could not say what amount of money deceased had earned. P.C. 277 F deposed to seeing the deceased fall from his box on his face, and found him unconscious. His nose was bleeding and face grazed. Witness conveyed him to station in his cab, but he died on the way. P.S. 9 F said he searched the body and found 6d. and 2 farthings. The deceased smelt very strongly of drink.—Dr. Thomas said the heart was enlarged and the kidneys large and inflamed. The stomach showed signs of chronic alcoholism. Death was due to syncope, extensive disease of the heart.—Verdict accordingly.

CHILDREN DIE FROM ASPHYXIA.—Wyatt held an inquest on the body of A. G. Bentley, 16 months old, son of an arc colourman, living at Lordship-road, Dulwich.—The evidence showed that on Tuesday deceased did not appear very well, but there was nothing to cause them anxiety, but the following morning he suddenly died in his mother's arms.—Dr. Bentley, East Dulwich-road, stated that the cause of death was asphyxia from congestion of the lungs and brain.—Verdict accordingly.

Wyatt held an inquest respecting the death of Herbert Swain, the 14-month son of a baker, of Fearnley-road, Camberwell.—It appeared from the evidence of the mother that deceased was sitting on the floor

The picked it up and it suddenly expired.—
Dr. Jarjant, Peckham, deposed to death resulting from asphyxia, consequent upon an epileptic seizure.—Verdict accordingly.

ALEEP IN HIGH HOLBORN.—Mr. Trounbeck held an inquest on the body of a man unknown at about six o'clock on Wednesday morning. G.W. Rly. was loaded with fish was going along High Holborn, when the driver saw something lying in the road ahead, which he took to be a sack of corn. He tried to avoid it, but the near side wheel passed over it, and hearing a strange gurgling sound, he pulled up and found he had run over the deceased. The man, who lay prone across the road, must have been asleep.—Dr. Tribe, King's College Hospital, said death had resulted from a fractured spine, besides which deceased had sustained other terrible injuries.—Accidental death.

"MORAL MURDER."—Mr. Cranston Hicks held an inquest on the body of a young woman named child. She was picked up in Church-street, York-road, on Tuesday afternoon last by P.C. Horn deposing that he saw a brown paper parcel, tied with string, lying in the middle of the roadway. He picked it up, and finding it contained the dead body of a child, he removed it to the police station. Medical evidence proved that the child had been born alive, but that it had been suffocated immediately after birth.—The coroner said the people concerned showed more than ordinary coolness. As a rule they attempted to hide dead bodies, but in this case they absolutely threw it in the middle of the road. The unfortunate child had never had a "legal existence," but there could be no doubt that many so-called midwives carried on a system of what, was called "baby farming." If not legal, murder, and did not matter much if it cost the mother £50 or £60, to have a "still-born" child. There should be an Act to compel the registration of all still-born children.—"Found dead."

PLAYING WITH FIRE.—An inquest was held by Dr. Danford Thomas on the body of Arthur Tetchford, 3, some licensed victualler of Castle street, Kentish Town.—The father of the deceased was on the 28th ult., the deceased and two other children were left in the nursery whilst the nurse was engaged elsewhere, the fire-guard having been removed. One of the children, aged 4, took a piece of the burning wood from the fire and put it against the deceased's pants, setting them alight. The attention of the mother and another attracted. When she turned round, the little boy found himself surrounded in flames, which were extinguished by wrapping the child up in the carpet. It was medically attended, but sank and died on Friday from exhaustion from pneumonia following the burns.—Accidental death.

CHARGE AGAINST A BANK MANAGER.
COMMITTAL FOR TRIAL.

At Stratford on Saturday, Edward Purkiss, late manager of the Eastern Green Branch of the London County Stock Bank, was charged before Mr. Justice Collier on the 29th ult., with embezzlement of bank monies of the bank, under circumstances reported in the "People".—Mr. Bosanquet, who prosecuted, said the case had assumed a serious aspect, and involved a very considerable amount, but it was not proposed to prove more than one or two cases. On the last occasion he gave evidence as to £54 15s. and now he would give similar evidence as to £45, which the prisoner received from Mr. Knight, of the Golden Cross beerhouse Woodford Green.—The prisoner was then formally charged with embessment of the £45 and evidence having been given in support of the charge, Mr. Bosanquet asked for remand, and his being granted. The prisoner, owing to ill-health of the prosecution, who had during the remand been in the infirmary, asked for bail, and the bench said they would consider the matter.—Subsequently, on the application of Mr. Bosanquet the bench agreed to bind over the witnesses in the two cases which had been completed and Mr. George, for the defence, when the former witness came to read over, said, "We have nothing at present."—Prisoner was committed for trial to the Central Criminal Court on the two charges, bail being allowed—two sureties in £500 each and his own recognisances of £500.

UNQUALIFIED MEDICAL PRACTITIONERS.

Mr. Braxton Hicks held an inquest on Saturday on the body of Richard Thompson, 31, rent collector, Stamford-street Blackfriars.—The widow stated that her husband came home complaining of a cough and feeling cold. He went to bed and on Monday morning was unable to get up, save for water for a doctor. About half-past four a gentleman came upstairs and "sounded" her husband, pronouncing him to be very ill, and recommended removal to the hospital. She quite thought it was a properly qualified doctor.—Emil Grimes, landlady of the house, deposed admitting the gentleman, who asked Mrs. Thompson, admitted "Toby" to see their son Charles Tomlinson, Stamford-street, who was dispenser to Dr. J.L. Barnes, in Stamford-street, who also has establishments at Bolt-court, Fleetstreet, and Store-street, Bloomsbury. Mr. Gregg, the gentleman referred to by previous witnesses, was Dr. Barnes's assistant. His witness remembered the messenger coming from Mrs. Thompson, and as Barnes was not in he sent Mr. Gregg. He heard the latter tell Dr. Barnes that he had seen a serious case, but the doctor did not go to see the patient. Then Thomas Gregg, who described himself as Dr. Barnes's assistant, said he was registered a medical student 25 years ago, but he had five qualifications since he became acting Dr. Barnes about 3 months. He admitted telling Mrs. Grimes to say he was "the doctor." He also said, "I am his assistant," but the lady probably did not hear him. He did not send Dr. Barnes to see because he knew it was a hopeless case, and he did not wish to put the people to expense.—The Coroner: Were you Dr. Barnes's charger? Witness: One shilling perance for advice and medicine.—Coroner: I have been unable to learn to Dr. Barnes ever seen in Stamford-street, nor my information is that you represent him.—Witness: He is to be seen whenever there is.—The coroner said that was the conduct of the witness, the policeman continued: When I find I have a case infringing the Medical Acts I shall not refer to the Treasury to prosecute, but shall undertake it myself, and I do not think that I shall not report this case to Apothecaries' Society.—Dr. Nichol Heston stated that death was due to syncope following pneumonia and pleurisy.—Very accordingly.

At Hythe, on Saturday, Richard Ley St. corporal in the Military Police at Shorncliffe was committed for trial for burglary at White Lion Inn, Cheriton.

An application has just been made for the Queen's bounty on behalf of Mrs. Newham, labourer's wife, of Godlington, Bedfordshire, who on Dec. 9 gave birth to 3 sons, all of whom are living and well. A remarkable circumstance is that one of the children had several teeth when born.

In 1842 the depression of trade and agriculture in the United Kingdom was even greater than that of the last few years. In that year pauperism and crime reached, not their relative, but their actual, maxima, total at last one person in every 11 was a pauper, and one in every 500 was committed for trial. Smuggling has not by any means died out. Notwithstanding that the search of the Customs is rigorous and thorough, a large number of persons try to introduce goods duty free. Tobacco in its various forms is most frequently the cause of offence. During last year 20,000lb. of smuggled tobacco were confiscated.

The American tariffs are now so high that according to Sir C. M. Kennedy, the late head of the Commercial Department of the Foreign Office, "it would be morally impossible for America to develop her import duties any further in the case of many articles." At present they vary between 50 and 265 per cent. upon articles of import.

In Burmah, when severe illness of any kind has baffled the skill of the doctor, it is customary to abandon all further medical treatment, the patient's complaint being supposed to be caused by an evil spirit, which must be driven away by any hope of recovery can be expected. This is accomplished by means of music and dancing, accompanied by certain mystic rites.—"Family Doctor."

The Sheffield County Council minutes suggest increases in the salaries in the town clerk's office amounting to £100, and that additional assistance at the cost of £200 be obtained. The Water Committee also recommended an increase in the salaries of the officials to the amount of £150, but the Health Committee report that the proposal to increase the wages of the scavengers from 12s. to 20s. per week was not carried.

The mean reading of the barometer last week at Greenwich was 29.58 inches, and that of the thermometer 42.2deg., the latter being 3.5deg. above the week's average in 50 years, reckoned from 1841 to 1890.

A statute of 1750 required that master bookbinders should have their books with their hands and bands, and that in case of infringement the books be done again, and a fine of £30 per volume be imposed.

One of the healthiest parts of the world is North Cave, in Yorkshire. The population is not much more than 1,000, yet there are alive in it over a score of couples who have celebrated their golden weddings.

A curious case of deer is that of eating birds and insects have eaten its flesh, its bones will often be consumed by its own relations. Deer will also eat horns that have been shed.

Mosaic floors, laid with small pieces of different coloured stones set in regular patterns, were known to the Egyptians 2,300 years B.C. The floors of the kind dated 1100 B.C. in Babylon were common in the Athenian and Roman houses.

Poisoning by means of phosphorised grain is found to be the most effective means of keeping the rabbits down in certain parts of Australia. One squatter, it is stated, poisoned 4,000 in a paddock of about 600 acres in the space of four days. It is estimated that the breed in holes lay white eggs.

The sand-martin and the kingfisher, which lay their eggs at the end of a long burrow in a bank, as well as the owl and woodpecker, which breed in holes in trees, all lay white eggs.

A fine of £100, or 12 months' imprisonment, was imposed on 30 landlords at West London on Pietro di Silvestri, Italian proprietor of a bogus club at Seagrave-road, West Brompton, for selling wines and spirits without being licensed.

The supply of coal has so exceeded the demand, and such an immense quantity is stored, that it is thought the price will in a short time get very cheap. It is estimated that the coal-mining company alone will this season save something like £17,000 in their coal contracts.

At Grimsby Town Council it was admitted that there were no minutes of the committee appointed to inquire into the identity of the person responsible for the cholera rumour, and that no details could be given that would be of profit or interest. The inquiry has been a failure.

The investigation into the condition of Salisbury spire has now been completed, and it is estimated that at least £10,000 will be necessary to "give it substantial strength and a fresh lease of life." Meanwhile it is satisfactory to know that no immediate disaster is likely to occur.

It is believed by the Moslems that at the Judgment Day painters will be required to furnish with souls all representations of human beings which they have made. Failing in this ordeal, they will lose their own souls as a forfeit for their presumptuous imitation of the Creator.

The Hull steam trawler Moth has been landed 22 crew of the Swedish schooner Elisabeth from Huddershall to London, which foundered in the North Sea on Sunday. The captain reports the drowning of the second mate and the chief mate. Two firemen were admitted to the Hull Infirmary suffering from injuries received during the storm.

Chairs were in use in Egypt as long ago as 3300 B.C. The Chinese employed them from about 1900 B.C. In India they were used, and are mentioned as dating from 1100 B.C. House chairs with backs were in use in India A.D. 300. They are known to have been employed in Rome as early as A.D. 70, being mentioned by Pliny at that date. Chairs with foot rests were used in Rome A.D. 450.

In the Admiralty Court judgment was given for the defendants in an action brought by the Marquis of Londonderry against Beadle Brothers for damages alleged to have been sustained by the plaintiff's s.s. Harvest Queen, in consequence of the improper condition of the berth at Garden Wharf, Erith, belonging to defendants, where the vessel was moored. The Trinity Masters reported that the berth was a st. one, and plaintiff withdrew from the action.

A clerk named Wallace, in the employ of a firm of solicitors, was charged at Bow-street with forging cheques to the prejudice of his employers. The case now proved was one in which the prisoner received a £200 note at the bank as part payment of a cheque for £225. The note was not a friend to change, and the money was deposited to Wallace's credit in the Economic Bank. Prisoner said he had that amount invested in shares, and he would like to restore it. Commenced trial.

Every German regiment has a chiropodist in its ranks.

An ocean liner costs £33 per ton, or about £21,600 for the entire hull.

Handmade paper was always sized with a solution of common glue.

The Duke of Cambridge is expected shortly after Christmas to pay a visit to Cairo.

There are over 4,500 paper mills in the civilised countries of the world.

In 1833 the Sirius crossed the Atlantic in 18 days, at that time considered an amazing performance. The present record is 5 days.

The inventor of the Horry tobacco-pot made a princely fortune out of his patent.

Mr. Chamberlain owes his income to the invention of the gimlet-pointed screw.

Herr Dowe, the tailor, who invented the famous bullet-proof coat, has died at Wiesbaden of consumption.

Some landowners in Horsham, Victoria, have offered "General" Booth 250 acres subject to strict conditions as to cultivation.

M. Viger, the French Minister of Agriculture, has appointed a commission to report on the working of the legislation of 1891 on betting at horse races.

Fans came from the East during the Crusades, being brought back by returning knights as presents for their friends. A French nobleman brought the first ostrich fan to Paris about 1100.

Lord Kelvin carries about with him constantly, in his coat-tail pocket, a little green book, not to go down ideas which he may forget, but to work out, in his leisure moments, the most abstruse mathematical problems.

There is almost nothing that a monkey cannot do. On a golf links near San Francisco a monkey is accompanied by two Formosan crows, one of which is a white crow, and a small Turkish fox, and act as her caddies.

"Cavendish" is the nom-de-plume of Mr. H. Jones, whose "Principles of Whist" was published in London in 1863. Only 250 copies of the book were printed, and Mr. Jones took the name "Cavendish" from a little whist club which he was a member.

The largest charge of dynamite ever exploded intentionally was that by which the Flood Rock—a dangerous reef—was removed from the entrance to East River, New York. The charge consisted of 150 tons, and was computed that 1,176,000 tons of rock were displaced.

Mr. Dr. Maurier's (the author of "Tribly") models are his grandsons, who are willing to pose for a quarter of an hour for a penny; but the author-painter's great grievance is that he has not a granddaughter, and consequently has to borrow a little girl from next door.

There is one gentleman in England who has a sea captain's certificate. This is Lady Clifford. She passed her examination with honours, and though her purpose in doing so was to qualify as captain of her own yacht, she could, if she desired, serve as master of a ship on the high seas.

Not very long ago the ladies of Berlin took to wearing the eyeglass. The glass was seldom stuck in the eye, and was worn round the neck on a band of ribbon, and so had something of the effect of an Order. The correct pattern was small, set in a narrow rim of gold or tortoiseshell.

A Mr. Pattison, a butcher of Rockhampton, a town close to Mount Morgan, got an early interest in that famous mine, and was soon drawing huge dividends. He got a seat in the Queensland Parliament, went under in the recent financial crisis, and is now said to be back in his butcher's shop.

Lord Herschell has had a singular experience. He has been twice knighted—the only instance on record, probably. When he was made Solicitor-General in 1880 he was made a knight; and in 1893, in the same ceremony, he was made a baronet, forgetting this, in at Windsor, when the Grand Cross of the Bath, and gave him "the honour of knighthood" before anyone could interfere.

This is perhaps the tallest story on record: An elephant ran amuck, killed a child, and then turned upon his master, dashed him to the ground, and trampled the breath out of his body. And then, the touching story goes on, the elephant, finding the animal dead, picked up the fragments, proceeded to his master's house, and depositing his mournful burden at the door, passed on.

Spaniards are proverbially courteous, and this is true, it appears, even of those among them who are thieves. Two such stole a note-book from Madame Salvages and a tailor-singer. In it were many lucky pieces and talismans. The loss of which worried the artist greatly; but when the newspapers reported the theft, the thieves sent the relic back neatly enclosed in a bag, with a polite note begging that the finder of the bag might be allowed to keep the money as a souvenir of so charming a singer.

During the trial of the Criminal Court, Harry S. Parnell, who had been charged with an indictment charging him with threatening to publish a false and defamatory libel of and concerning Agnes Pakenham with intent to extort money. The case was, however, not gone into. Defendant offered an ample apology, and the Recorder allowed the matter to be withdrawn.—George Boys, 38, Lambeth, was sentenced to three years' penal servitude for forgery.

Bank notes have been known to light pipes, to wrap up snuff, and to be used as curl papers; and British tars, mad with rum and prize-money, have not infrequently, in time of war, made sandwiches of them between bread and butter. Carelessness gives the bank enormous losses against which the loss of a note is but a trifle. In the 40 years between 1792 and 1832 there were outstanding notes of the Bank of England, presumed to have been lost or destroyed, amounting to £1,330,000 odd, every shilling of which was clear profit to the Bank.

Pantomimes seem to be highly popular at the outdoor theatres. The Metropolitan, at Camberwell, will have "Robinson Crusoe," the Park Theatre, at Holloway, and the Richmond Theatre, at Whitton, and his Cat," the Stratford Theatre, "Red Riding Hood," the New Lyric, at Haggerston, "Aladdin," and the Lyric, at Ealing, "Cinderella." In the last-named the heroine will be embodied by Miss Maud Sinclair, who is said to have played "The Real Little Lord Fauntleroy" over 800 times in the provinces.

A gruesome discovery was made in a canal at Edinburgh on Sunday. A drawbridge over the canal has for a long time been the subject of complaint on the part of the residents on account of its alleged dangerous character after dark, and workmen were engaged running off the water from the canal preparatory to removing the bridge, when the bodies of two men were discovered at the canal bottom. Both were elderly men of the labouring class, and one of them was afterwards identified as John Watson, who resided in the neighbourhood, and has been missing for some time.

The latest novelty at American watering-places is the revolving observation tower. This invention of Mr. Smith comprises a light hexagonal steel tower of 100ft. or more in height, by 14ft. in diameter. Surrounding the tower is a circular platform, which can be raised or lowered, and at the same time rotated. The passengers take their seats on the platform at the ground level. The platform is then slowly raised to the top of the tower, and at the same time is caused to revolve, so that each passenger follows a spiral path, and gets a complete view of all surrounding scenery.

Pens are polished with emery powder in a large revolving drum.

Hollow steel spheres are in use in Sweden for billiard balls.

The basis of most indelible inks is the ordinary nitrate of silver.

The Gresham Baptist Chapel, Barrington-road, Brighton, has been destroyed by fire.

The Lords of the Admiralty, who inspected the new first-class battleship Magnificent at Chatham, were loud in their praises of her appearance.

Patrick Donnelly, labourer, employed at the Bolton Iron and Steel Works, fell on some red hot slag, and was so terribly burned that he died soon afterwards.

In an old rag nest found in the chimney of an old house at Ligonier recently were some papers bearing date 1770, a Mexican dollar of 1774, and a Mexican quarter of 1774.

A three-legged cow can be seen at Trawmawr, near Carmarthen. She walks about unconcernedly, and seems quite contented with her lot. The fourth leg had to be amputated near the hock.

The mission sent out to China by the Lyons Chamber of Commerce visited last month Hukao, one of the new ports opened up by the treaty between China and Japan, and reached Mongtse on the 3rd inst.

Bears are reported to be more numerous in the Okendefne swamp, Georgia, this year than for many years past. One farmer living near the swamp had 16 hogs killed by bears within 7 days recently.

One of the novel features of the Utah constitution, just adopted, is a provision for trials by jury of eight members. Utah is the first State to establish a court of record jury with less than the traditional 12 jurors.

Six deer quietly grazing in his meadow one day last week caused a farmer to wonder whether deer and tame, or whether the hunters were driving them all out of the woods.

The death is announced of Mr. W. Cates, at Hayes, Middlesex. He was author of "The Dictionary of Biography," "The Pocket Date Book," and partly of the "Encyclopaedia of Chronology," and other books of reference.

The committee of the Kingston-on-Thames Free Public Library have, subject to the approval of the town council, decided to open that institution on Sundays. Strong efforts are being made to induce the council to reverse the decision of the committee.

The directors of the M.E. Co. have agreed to receive a deputation on Dec. 19 of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and other bodies interested in the proposed extension of the Midland Railway from Barnsley to Bradford.

Freedom of criticism of public officials is still one of the notable privileges of the West. A Kearney newspaper remarks that its recently elected judge that he celebrated his election to the district bench by remaining sober for a whole day.

A party of miners from the Yukon River mines of Alaska arrived at Port Townsend last week with their pockets bulging with nuggets and gold dust. They had from 1,000dols. to 5,000dols. apiece, the result of 2 years at the mines.

Discoveries of valuable oxys, which promise to develop into very large mines, have been made near Healdsburg. The stone is beautifully marked, and a blast of the face of the ledge has exposed it in great quantities.

Mr. Cowen, an authority all the way from Bulawayo, has informed an interviewer that there is gold in Rhodesia, and that he has been made near Healdsburg. The stone is beautifully marked, and a blast of the face of the ledge has exposed it in great quantities.

The Limerick Corporation recently placed the name of the convict, John Daly, first on the list of three persons fit to serve as City High Sheriff. The Lord-lieutenant has passed over Mr. Daly's name, and appointed the well-known Mr. J. Gaffney, Parnellite, who was second on the list.

Berlin proposes to have an immense "Cairo-street" at her exhibition next year. Six times as much space will be given to it as was given at the Chicago Exhibition, and besides reproductions of Egyptian monuments and monuments there will be a harem hidden among the shops.

The brake attached to a heavily-laden wagon suddenly gave way, and the vehicle, running down the hill, came into collision with another wagon, one of the shafts of which entered the side of the horse, causing the animal's death.

During the late run of the Great Yarmouth Harrier, who met at "Horseshoe," a cabman named Alfred Brown, belonging to Yarmouth, who was watching the hunt, ran forward to open a gate to let the hounds through. He fell down, and almost immediately expired.

Voters in the election district of Furness, near Harrisonburg, had no time last week to exercise the suffrage privilege. The poll books and ballots were returned the day after election with the explanation that the voters were too busy shucking corn to attend the election, and no one could be prevailed on to serve as judge or clerk.

On the trans-Siberian railroad church cars are run for the benefit of a large population which would otherwise have no place of worship, and are supplied with all the accessories of an orthodox Greek church. Each church makes two stops a day, and it is thus possible to hold services in 70 settlements each week.

Mrs. B. Barnato, a pleasant-faced, sincere, unaffected woman, was born in South Africa, of English parentage. She has three children—one a baby, the second Leah, Premier's name, after a gold mine, and the third Lady Rosebery, after the ex-Prime Minister of England and his home, the Derby winner.

Epigrammatic sayings by the late M. Alexandre Dumas continue to go the rounds in Paris. One of the authors of the "Remplacant" declares that meeting him a short time ago he happened to say to him, "Have you ever noticed that it is quite hopeless to get a fool to see that he is a fool?" "To be sure," was Dumas' reply. "The moment a man knows he is a fool, he is a fool no longer."

The novel spectacle of a steamer's furnaces being fed with bank notes was recently witnessed at a Mediterranean port. Forty-five sacks of the apparently valuable paper were tossed into the furnace, under the longing eyes of the stokers, who stood restlessly by with an evidently burning desire to possess themselves of at least a handful of that which they somewhat inelegantly styled "rum fuel." The notes were cancelled notes of the Bank of Algiers, whose manager supervised the operation of their absolute combustion.

The Polar star, which is a double star, is distant 292,000,000,000 miles from us; Capella, distant 425,000,000,000 miles, a space which is traversed by light in 71 years and 8 months—and light travels at the rate of 185,000 miles per second. A ray of light from Capella in 1885 must have started out in 1824. Even if Capella was extinguished in 1825, we should see it still. Sirius is 2,688 times larger than our own sun, surrounded by a system of heavenly bodies, some of which are known to our astronomers. A ray of light from Sirius must travel 12,000,000,000,000 miles before it reaches us.

The first "Battle of Flowers" at Monte Carlo is fixed for Feb. 2, and the festivities will be renewed on March 3 and 17. The Grand International Regatta begins on March 23, and lasts for 3 days.

John Crawley, coachman to Sir P. Egerton, committed suicide. His body was discovered by his wife suspended to the bed-post by the neck. He had been very uneasy of late owing to loss of money.

In the Under-sheriff's Court, at Leeds, a number of claims arising out of the pier disaster at Morecambe were gone into, the only question to consider being as to the extent of damage. The Pier Co. was mulcted in sums varying from £50 to £220.

The Alberto Lévy prize, of the value of £2,000, was awarded on Monday by the French Academy of Medicine to Dr. Hehring, of Berlin, and Roux, sub-director of the Pasteur Institute, Paris, for their discovery of the means of curing diphtheria.

Great gloom has been cast over the American colony, extending to the English speaking residents, in Paris, by the sad and unexplained suicide of Mr. F. Munroe, one of the firm of the Brothers Munroe, the well-known American bankers.

A handsome memorial brass has been set up in the parish church of Kilmore, Ireland, in memory of that distinguished medical officer, Surg.-maj. Parks, whose premature death evoked such widely-expressed sympathy at the time.

It has been decided by the Home Secretary to detain all London first offenders in Wormwood Scrubbs Prison, where they will be kept apart from habitual criminals. This was suggested by the commissioners who recently investigated the management of our prisons.

The supply of the magazine rifle to the fleet is being pushed forward. Every ship of the Channel Squadron will have the weapon when the squadron is re-organised a few days hence, and steps have been taken to the supply sent to Gibraltar and Malta a few weeks ago for the Mediterranean Squadron. The China and American fleets are also to be at once supplied.
